Hi Chris,

We are attempting to do what was discussed on the conference call we had last Friday, 9/17. The air test will be re-conducted in the living room ceiling space, and upstairs restroom once the vanity has been replaced and repairs are complete. Carpet and padding have been removed and are pending reinstallation, and finally professional apartment cleaning.

You obstructing us to complete the work will only cause further delays. During our call, confirmation of your extended hotel stay and our dates of access were confirmed and access is permissible as you are not currently staying in the unit.
